Designed for Practical Working-Men, and those intended for the Engineering Profession.

Edited by Oliven Brans, formerly Professor of Mathematics, College of Civil Engineers, London; Author and Inventor of "The Calculus of Form," "The New and Emproved System of Logarithms," "The Elements of Euclid by Colors," etc., etc., etc.

lence of fever at Rio de Janeiro at the time, prevented their ships from reaching Panama as soon as anticipated, and caused detention at the listhmus, which was increased by the impatience of passengers in going forward, against the advice of the Company, at an earlier day than the ship could possibly reach Panama.

These interruptions are now all removed. Three of the four ships of the Company, intended for the Pacific service, have arrived at Panama, and several of them have performed trips to San Francisco and back. So that the Company are now able to give the public the assurance that the voyage through from New York to San Francisco, will be performed with regularity and despatch.

The great object of this publication is, to place to before practical men and students such an amount of theoretical and scientific knowledge, in a condensed form, as shall emble them to work to the best advantage, and to avoid those mistakes which they might otherwise commit. The amount of useful information thus brought together, is almost beyond a precedent in such works. Indeed there is hardly any subject within its range which is not cated with such clearness and precision, that even man of the most ordinary capacity cannot fail of understanding, and thus learning from it much which it is importent for him to know.

From the annexed list of the principal authors and subject comprised in this work it is self-evident, that all citizens engaged in the practical and useful arts, etc., may derive essential advantages from the possession and study of this publication, The following may be especially designated: 66. The publishers have expended a large sum of money to get original drawings of machinery in practical use in this country, and have procured almost every work on the sudject, whether published in England, France, or Germany, the most essential parts of which being comprised in this Dictionary, render it as perfect and comprehensive as possible. The publishers have endeavored to use great economy in type, so that each page of the work contains at least four times the number of words found in ordinary pages of the same size. This has also secured to each plate working drawings of ample size and clearness, so that a Mechanic may construct accusately any machine described. The publishers are, in short determined, regardless of cost, to make the work as complete as possible; and it is hoped every one desirous to obtain the work will procure it as issued in numbers, and thus encourage the enterprise.

The work will be issued in semi-monthly numbers, commencing in January, 1850, and will progress with great regularity.

The whole work will be published in 40 numbers at 25 cents per number, and completed within the current year, 1850. A liberal discount will be made to agents.

Notice to Proprietors of Newspapers throughout the United States and Canada.

If the foregoing advertisement is inserted five times durft the year, and the paper containing i seat to us, a copy of the work will be sent gratin payment.

Ashort time past we published some statistics relative to the number of soldiers supplied from the different States to the revolutionary war. De Bow's Commercial Review gives some tables relative to this, and other subjects of equal interest, which we copy.

1. The number of soldiers furnished by the American States during the revolution, and the population of each State in 1790 and in 1847.

2. Principal battles of the revolution, their several dates, commanders-in-chief, and losses on each side.

THE BRITISH PERIODICALS AND THE FARMER'S GUIDE. EONARD SCOTT & Co., No. 54 Gold street, Mew York, continue to publish the four leading British Quarterly Reviews and Blackwood' Magazine; in addition to which they have recently commenced the publication of a valuable Agricultural work, called the

Although these works are distinguished by the political shades above indicated, yet but a small portion of their contents is devoted to political subjects. It is their literary character which gives them their chief value, and in that they stand confessedly far above all other journals of their class. Blackwood, still under the masterly guidance of Christopher North, maintains its ancient celebrity, and is, at this time, unusually attractive, from the serial works of Bulwer and other literary notables, written for that magazine, and first appearing in its columns both in Great Britain and in the United States. Such works as "The Caxtons" and "My New Novel" (both by Bulwer, "My Peninsular Medal," "The Green Hand," and other serials, of which numerous rival editions are issued by the leading publishers in this country, have to be refprinted by those publishers from the pages of Blackwood, after it has been issued by Messrz. Scot-& Co., so that subscribers to the reprint of that printed by those passes issued by Mesers. See Blackwood, after it has been issued by Mesers. It is known to most of those to whom this paper will be sent, that the Senior Editor was Anditor of the Post-Office Department until the month of November last; with by far the larger portion of both postmasters and contractors, he has had direct intercourse, in person or by letter. He entered the department fourteen years since, and for many years previously, had been, first in the War Department, and sub-requently in the Treusury. He has therefore had the best opportunities for understanding the arrangements of ousiness in all the departments, and being acquainted with those who carry it on. Since his official connection with the Government ceased, he flatters himself he has preserved the respect and regard of most of the present incumbents of the departments, and is on becoming terms of intercourse and civility with them all. The Junior Editor has been ansaiduously engaged for several years, in studying, by personal inquiry and examination, the practical and daily routine and details of the Post-Office and other branches of the public business. It is with this stock of experience, and these advantages for reaching the various sources of administrative action, and for imparting minute and illustrative in struction, and valuable periodical and statistical information, that we challenge your confidence and solicit your support and patronage.

We have fixed upon the 15th of each month as the day for the publication of our paper, so as to afford time for obtaining from the departments, all the orders, notices and changes issued, or made by them during the preceding month. Tables of Post Office, and compilations of the Laws and Regulations, are issued by the Post Office Department only once in two or three years. It is a matter of inconvenience and complaint, for which hitherto there has been no remedy, that in one month from the time of these issues, there are offices in the tables which are no longer in operation
